

In 2000 Counties This Month The Forces of the Church of Christ Will Gather To Face the Facts.

IN 2000 counties in the United States the pastors and laymen of 30 great denominations will meet in conference this month.

It is the kind of conference that generals hold before a critical engagement; that business men hold before entering a new market. A conference of judgment, not emotion; a clear-eyed facing of the facts.

A Survey that Business Men Must Admire

For more than a year hundreds of workers have been quietly engaged in making a scientific survey of the mission fields, and of America county by county.

The facts developed are startling. No such picture of America's religious situation has ever before been drawn.

On the basis of these surveys thirty Protestant denominations are uniting in a

Nation Wide Cooperative Campaign

Each of the thirty denominations has its own "Forward Movement" organized and officered. The Interchurch World Movement is the clearing house for all of these.

It is the agency which the churches have created to avoid duplication, to foster cooperation and make sure that every man and dollar render the utmost service possible.

The month of April will be devoted to making the facts of the survey known to America; in the week of April 25th-May 2nd, will come a united simultaneous financial campaign.

Whether You Are Inside the Church or Out

To every man and every woman who loves his country, these 2000 county conferences are vitally important.

For the facts developed by this great survey show vividly what forces are at work in America—and what kind of a country this country is to be.

See that the pastor of your church appoints delegates. Any pastor can tell you the conference place and date. Or write direct to the

WHAT HAPPENED APRIL 3, 1919.

Russians still press on over Carpathians, Czar's hosts struggle to break through Lupkow and Uzkow passes; Germans rushed from the west to meet the attack. U. S. note on allied blockade is presented to the British Foreign Office; contents are not made public.

1918. French regain foothold in Vaux after 24 hour battle; strong offensive retakes much of the ground lost April 1st; French retire further on Malancourt front. Allies reply to U. S. protest on seizure of mails; claim right to such interruption.

1917. Senator LaFollette delays action on war resolution for a day; continuous session to be held tomorrow.

1916. only six senators in anti-war party. French storm ridge south of St. Quentin, advancing on eight mile front taking three villages.

1915. "We may regard the future with tranquility" says Foch in message to French deputies; German advance has halted but new effort expected. France opposes our aiding the Bolsheviks of Russia; help given by America would be turned against allies is the opinion.

1914. Bolshevik drive on Germans; Hindenburg's troops combat the reds on the East Prussian front; they admit failure to advance. Allied forces repulse Bolshevik attacks south of Archangel; Americans and British among the defenders.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

SAMSONVILLE.

Samsonville. April 1.—Sunday was a fine day and a most interesting day in our Sunday school and church service.

Church service will be held in two weeks as Mr. Thompson expects to return from conference to fill his appointments on that day.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Every and Mitchell visited at West Shokan on Thursday.

Mrs. Ernest Palen and daughter, Blanche, called on her aunt, Mrs. Freeman Every, on Saturday afternoon.

We were much pleased to see our pastor's wife, Mrs. G. W. Thompson, who accompanied her husband here to church on Sunday.

J. H. Bevier went to Shokan to attend meeting on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Every of West Shokan spent over Friday night with relatives here.

Friends who called on Monday to been ill for the past two weeks, were up with Mrs. Lavina Markie, who is ill with a cold and asthma. We all hope for her speedy recovery. Mrs. Adeline Van Kleeck visited Mrs. Freeman Every on Sunday. Edgar Palen made a business trip to Kingston on Tuesday.

COMING MONDAY!

A great sale! The greatest ever held in Kingston! It will be an OPPORTUNITY for every housewife in this city to lighten the labor in her home.

$3.00 is the most you will need to take advantage of this great event.

"Sherry Anderson." It was first applied to Andrew Bordin, a man who was very tall and very comical, and in order to instruct the people he used to address them at fairs and other social places. Those who looked at him and those who heard him, though not knowing his name, were called Sherry Anderson.

KINGSTON'S FIRE LOSS LAST YEAR WAS $39,355.13

According To Fire Chief Chipp's Figures—This Was $5,342.33 Less Than 1918—Interesting Facts and Figures in Fire Chief's Annual Report.

Kingston's fire loss during 1919 was $39,355.13, according to the figures submitted to the board of fire commissioners by Fire Chief Chipp. This was $5,342.33 less than 1918. The report also shows that there were 128 fires in Kingston last year.

The report which contains many interesting facts and figures reads as follows:

Office of the Chief of Fire Department, Central Fire Station, Kingston, N. Y.

To the President and Members of the Board of Fire Commissioners.

Gentlemen: In compliance with Chapter 704 of the Laws of 1907, and in order to comply with Chapter 611 of the Laws of 1915, I have the honor to herewith submit the annual report of the department for the year ending December 31, 1919, giving a detailed statement of the fires that have occurred during the year with general information concerning the workings of the department.

I would also refer you to my annual inventory hereto attached. There was during the year of twelve months ending December 31, 1919, one hundred and twenty-eight fire calls, this being forty-four less than the year previous.

Most of the waste is due to careless or thoughtless action on the part of people who ought to know better the record shows in a study of the causes of fires.

In performing fire duty water passed through 18,470 feet of 2 1/2 inch fire hose. Also used 228 gallons of chemical and 1 gallon of Pyrene.

Building permits, complaints and inspections:

During the year there was 79 permits issued for repairs and new buildings, 27 complaints investigated, and 256 inspections made, all of which has been reported to your honorable board in my monthly reports.

Received at Central Station.

One Seagrave city service hook and ladder equipped with one 35 foot extension ladder, two 35 foot extension ladders with other ladders, 262 feet of hose in all. These ladders are all from ladders, also one pump, one bay hook, one saw, one axe, one pike pole, one crow bar, one wire cutter, one roof cutter, one life net, one saw, one 25 gallon chemical tank, one 3-gallon fire extinguisher, also carry 500 feet of 2 1/2 inch fire hose and 200 feet of chemical hose.

This truck was installed in Central Fire Station December 6th, 1919. By installing this apparatus it modernizes all paid stations.

There is also a motor apparatus at one of the volunteer stations, Cordus hose house on Delaware avenue near Landing street, this sub-ing seven pieces of motor apparatus in the department. Also received 1,000 feet of 2 1/2 inch fire hose, numerous supplies for the upkeep of apparatus, fire houses and the department.

Accidents.

During the year four citizens received serious injuries by or on account of fire, one proving fatal. Five members of the department received injuries of more or less severe nature in the discharge of their duties with the loss of one life.

Fires Which Were Attended By Loss Of Life Or Serious Injuries.

Friday, February 21, Mrs. Ward Matthews, No. 110 Downs street, turned hands and arms in trying to put out fire under stairway. She recovered at home.

Monday, April 21, Mrs. Mary Miller, No. 214 Foxhall avenue was fatally burned, her clothing igniting from a bon fire, died at hospital.

Sunday, October 19, Mrs. A. J. Brown, No. 61 West O'Reilly street, burned about hands when paraffin ignited in gas oven. She recovered at home.

Saturday, November 22, boy by the name of William McNally taken out from between flooring and elevator at Jacobson shirt factory. Boy recovered at the sanitarium.

Thursday, January 23, John T. Heppner, member of the paid force, had finger injured while at work at the Forsyth fire, attended by the department doctor.

Thursday, January 23, Marshall C. Miller, member of the paid force injured finger in brake on chief's car, attended by department doctor.

Monday, February 2, Louis A. Kolts, a member of the paid force, lost his life while fighting a brush death in a quarry hole 50 feet below. That occasion is one I shall never forget and will always be remembered by the men of the department.

Tuesday, April 15, Wiltwyck hose truck struck by Ford car of the Rev. George Danderman while responding to an alarm of fire at Joy's Lane, mud guard of hose truck damaged slightly.

Saturday, July 26, Harry Richter emergency fireman, injured between wheel and brake on chief's car, attended by Dr. Quiblan.

Efficiency of Two Platoon.

The two platoon was adopted by the board of fire commissioners and installed November 27, 1919.

The department is operating under the two platoon today with very good success. There is complete harmony between the officers and men of each platoon and spirit and morale of the fire force whether in station quarters or combating fire is of the highest order.

Practically 18 officers and men belong to the companies actively engaged in fire fighting and are divided as follows:

One chief, one deputy chief.

Central Station.

Pumper, No. 1 platoon, 2 men;

No. 2 platoon, 2 men; Hook and

Ladder Truck No. 1 platoon, 2 men;

No. 2 platoon, 2 men; Cornell station, No. 1 platoon, 2 men; No. 2 platoon, 2 men; Wiltwyck station,

No. 1 platoon, 2 men; No. 2 platoon,

2 men.

There is also connected with the department one superintendent of fire alarm and his helper.

At this time I would recommend that there be two additional men appointed for Central Station to look after chief's car and act as relief men in case of sickness and other causes.

I wish to state that in my experience the department is operated with greater efficiency under the two platoon system than under the old company system.

illness on January 8, 1919. He was appointed to the paid department

January 1, 1909.

Louis A. Kolts lost his life in the performance of his duty February 3,

1919. Appointed to the paid department March 1, 1916.

At this time I wish to extend my thanks to Commissioner Eltinge for the candy and cigars the firemen received.

I would also mention the letters and donations received during the year from different citizens whose property has been protected, for all of which I am extremely thankful.

It affords me great pleasure to be able to testify from year to year to the loyal support and able assistance which I receive from the officers and members of the volunteer companies, the deputy chief, and men of paid force and satisfactory manner in which both officers and men perform their duties.

In conclusion I return my sincere thanks to the president and members of the board of fire commissioners for the courteous and kind treatment

I have received at their hands and for the interest they have taken in the welfare of the department during the year.

Hereto attached will be found my annual inventory.

Respectfully submitted,

RODNEY A. CHIPP,

Fire Chief.

Famous Forest of Arden.
In the Forest of Arden, near London, England, the ancient custom is still observed of holding a May day procession, in which people from all the parishes surrounding the forest take part. The scripture is afterward read in the shade of one of the "gospel oaks," which are held sacred to this purpose. Little by little civilization is encroaching on the Forest of Arden. Railroads have cut through its trees, which are said once to have been so numerous that a squirrel could travel all over the forest without touching foot to the ground.

Icelandic Trawling Perils.
Compared with the hardships of Icelandic trawling, North sea boats are always in a haven. From October to March blizzards of snow and sleet sweep the Icelandic regions, and from December to the end of January there is only an hour or two of daylight. Icelandic vessels are much larger than North sea trawlers, and so marked is the difference between the two operations that an Icelandic skipper rarely works the North sea, and vice versa.

May Explain Egyptian Plague.
When all the waters of Egypt turned to blood it must have been rather appalling. But Gerace, in Calabria, beheld a similar phenomenon in 1883, when a fiery red cloud approached from the sea, presently covering all the heavens, and a rain of blood followed. When the rain dried, however, the matter that gave it its crimson hue was found to be volcanic dust which had been carried in the clouds and deposited by the rain drops.

Tastes and Odors of Wood.
Though most native American woods are without pronounced odor or taste American Forestry notes that woods of the laurel family, such as sassafras and California laurel or myrtle, have a distinct spicy odor and taste. Port Oxford cedar has a very spicy, resinous odor; other cedars, especially pencil cedar or Juniper, a more aromatic odor. Hemlock has a slightly sour odor, while cypress is somewhat rancid.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

MOTHER GRAY FOX.

"I can't understand these creatures," said Mother Gray Fox, "who will not be good to their children; like the snakes, for example."

"I cannot understand it either," said Grandmother Gray Fox. "Of course, my dear, you take after me, and I take after other gray foxes. The whole family has always cared for their children, and we cannot see how some creatures can be heartless."

"The fox family," said Mother Gray Fox, "is part of the dog family, a nice family. It's true we hunt and we go after poultry and we're very fond of chicken dinners. But then aren't people pretty fond of chicken dinners? Of course they are; so they shouldn't sulk us for liking them."

"Of course they shouldn't," said Mother Gray Fox, "for they would find us so nice and sensible and so clever and they really should ask us to their chicken dinners."

"I don't believe though," said Grandmother Gray Fox with a sly smile, "that they ever will. They don't care to have us like chicken dinners. They're a bit selfish about their chickens and their chicken dinners."

"I should say so," said Mother Gray Fox. "They are angry when we get their chickens. Very angry, indeed. They go after us then if they get the chance."

"It is true," said Grandmother Gray Fox, "that we do not feed the chickens first as they do. They're kind to them in the first place."

"I don't know that I think it is so kind," said Mother Gray Fox. "For they only feed them so they'll be nice and plump when they eat them."

"Oh, well," said Grandmother Gray Fox, "I suppose the chickens like people better than us, for people treat them nicely when they are alive and if they're not alive they don't care so much. If they care at all, which, come to think of it, they don't."

"Dear me," said Mother Gray Fox, "I thought you never were going to finish that sentence."

"I wasn't so sure about finishing it myself," said Grandmother Gray Fox. "We not only like chickens," said Mother Gray Fox, "but we like big juicy insects and bugs. We relish mice and think that rabbits and squirrels and birds are all very good."

"Well," said Grandmother Gray Fox, "people like more than chicken dinners. They eat other dishes, too."

"Ah, but they're not ahead of us there," said Mother Gray Fox. "They both stayed still for awhile, thinking and not speaking, and after a time Grandmother Gray Fox looked at Mother Gray Fox and said, 'What are you thinking about?'"

"I'm thinking of the three or four or five little ones who will come in the springtime. They will be so young and so helpless and they will need their mother so. They will be quite blind and they will be little blackish creatures—they won't be gray until they're older."

"They'll be born with the wonderful power to smell dangers and comforts, but even though they will have the sense of smell they will be very helpless."

"Ah, how I will watch over them and love them! I will do everything in the world for them and they will come to me in my cave den, which is now ready for them."

"You're just like all the foxes," said Grandmother Gray Fox. "We're all devoted to our young and we watch over them so carefully and we do no harm comes to them. They're such helpless little blind creatures when they're born, and we make them strong and teach them how to look after themselves, but for a long long time we watch them. I remember when you were a little helpless thing, my daughter."

"And because you were so good to me and taught me what a wonderful thing it was to have a mother, so I will try to give my little ones the same happiness and then they will want to care for their children in turn. So that time will be good to their young because they come to it naturally. I'll be a mother to daughters, from daughter to a child."

CUNNINGHAM ANSWERS CRITIC

Recently Judge W. D. Cunningham of Ellenville, speaking at Saugerties for the Daughters of the American Revolution, on Americanization, attacked Socialism. Anna Young Whiting, in the Post of that place, made answer. The essence of her letter follows: "His statement that all Socialists are atheists, surprises me for I am personally acquainted with several members of that much discussed party and almost without exception they are Christians. Two of them are clergymen and noted for their unselfishness and the sincerity of their religious ideals. Another fact is of interest when speaking of Socialism and Christianity. The earliest Christians, in striving to follow the teachings of Jesus lived on a Socialistic plan until this was interrupted by worldly influences."

Then follows a statement from "The Living Church," purporting to quote a Russian orthodox priest as pleased with and favoring the Bolsheviks' attitude toward religion, and stating that "its people still go to church."

Her letter ends thus: "Christians, who have difficulty in reconciling Christ's teachings. His sermon on the Mount, for example, with the graft, hypocrisy and selfishness of many of our leading 'Christian' Americans, sometimes become atheists and not Socialists; sometimes Socialists and not atheists, sometimes both; and not seldom they are very much in doubt as to what is to become of them and the world in general."

Judge Cunningham has replied to her letter in the same newspaper, and his letter follows:

Mr. Editor, Dear Sir:—The letter of Anna Young Whiting in your issue of the 13th inst., has just come to my attention. I will not ignore it. It is evident that my article is a scold in Socialism, else she would not have had the impudent temerity to attempt, what no informed Socialist would have the hardihood to essay, to-wit, to demonstrate, either that Socialism and Christianity are in harmony, or that Socialists generally retain Christian faith. Most Socialists would disdain to do it—for their atheism.

I did not say that every person who thinks he is a Socialist is an atheist, nor that every person who opposes social evils or injustice, or advocates changes, reforms or a new party, is an atheist. Some of these call themselves Socialists, or think they are Socialists, or are denounced as such by those who do not agree with them. They may or may not be true Marxian Socialists. My charge applies only to real Socialists. I am not concerned with milk-and-water parlor altruists, clerical or otherwise. All Socialists concede the accuracy of the distinction I make. Sometimes we hear of Christian, Catholic or State Socialism. None of these is Socialism. Hillquit, leader of American Socialists, calls these "bastard off-shoots," and says "they have no part in the real life and development" of the movement. (Socialism; Hill and Ryan, p. 2.)

My critic says she knows several Socialists who are Christians, two of whom are clergymen. Either they are poor Socialists or poor Christians. I hazard the guess that they are one of these varieties of pseudo-Socialists I have mentioned—high-minded and innocuous reformers, but not true Socialists at all.

The true Socialist is no vague, ingenuous altruist. He has a definite philosophy and plan of action. Both are intrinsically inimical to Christianity. His basic philosophy is the principle of "economic determinism," which means that all social institutions and beliefs are determined, caused to be what they are, by economic conditions, by the methods of production and distribution. At any given time the existing sex relations, civil laws, forms of religion, ethical and moral concepts are what they are, rather than something else, solely because the prevailing industrial system is what it is. This philosophy is materialistic, and contends man not to be comprised of matter and mind, but of matter only; that there is nothing but matter and the motion or evolution of matter; that there is no free will, but man is in all respects what economic conditions make him. Will the lady please say what place this principle leaves for soul, immortality, religion or God? Does she believe it consonant with any orthodox Christian faith?

Furthermore, the essential, fundamental principle of Socialism's economic program is the confiscation by the state of all capital or property used in production or distribution, and its perpetual retention and use by the state. This is not to be a voluntary arrangement, but the owners are to be despoiled of their property. Do her Christian friends reject the commandment, "Thou shalt not steal"? Or do they think it does not apply where many thieves combine, call themselves the proletariat or state, and effect the theft by force of numbers?

What do the leaders of Socialism themselves say of religion? Karl Marx, founder of it: "Religion is an absurd popular sentiment," a "fantastic degradation of human nature." It is the opium of the people." Lenin, "The abolition of religion as the deceptive happiness of the people, is a necessary condition for their true happiness." Hear James Leathem, English Socialist leader. "At the present moment I cannot remember a single instance of a person who is at the same time a really earnest and intelligent Socialist and an orthodox Christian. Marx, Lassalle and Engels among earlier Socialists; Morris, Bax, Hyndman, Guesde and Bebel among present-day Socialists are all more or less avowed atheists; and what is true of the more notable men of the party is almost equally true of the rank and file the world over." The N. Y. "Call," the Socialist daily of New York, says, "There is nothing to be gained by holding out any false hopes that a study of Socialism does not tend to undermine religious beliefs. The theory of economic determinism alone, if thoroughly grasped, leaves no room for a belief in the supernatural." (3-2, 1911). Liebknecht the German leader, in his book, "Materialist Conception of History," wrote, "It is our duty as Socialists to root out the faith in God with all our zeal, nor is anyone worthy the name who does not consecrate himself to the spread of atheism." In the big fight in the Socialists' national convention in 1908, Hillquit said, "Comrade Lewis... has in the domain of religion come to the position of an agnostic (atheist), and... ninety-nine per cent. of us have landed in the same spot." Since forbids further quotations, but I will engage to furnish two hundred of them readily. The above will serve as examples.

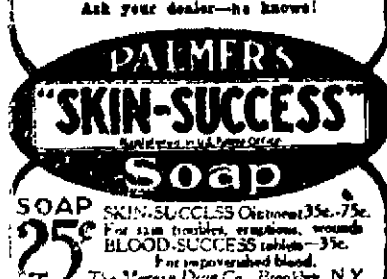

Surely my critics' ministerial friends are in bad company! Socialism in America has gained some clergymen, but always at the price ultimately of the abandonment of their ministry. Herron, Brown, O'Grady, Spargo et al., are former clergymen. Why do clergymen abandon their vocations on espousing Socialism? Is it not because they recognize the utter hostility between the two?

My critic says: "The early Christians lived on a Socialistic plan." Arrant nonsense! What I have said demonstrates it. True Socialism dates from Marx and fifty years ago. Every scheme of communal ownership of goods is not Socialism. The alleged foundation for her assertion is in Acts c. 2 & 3. "But all things were common unto them." That is the group of Christians about the Apostles voluntarily instituted among themselves common ownership of their goods, impelled by a supernatural motive, and so as to do more effectively the work of spreading the faith. Religious orders of various denominations today do the same thing, but no one is so absurd as to call them Socialists. Socialism does not involve common ownership of all goods, but only those used in production and distribution; it does not mean division among the needy, nor any division of the seized goods at all; is not limited to a group, but is to be universal; is not for religious motives, but for selfish, material ones; is not to be voluntary, but compulsory, and it necessary forcible.

For little Boys and Girls

Mother, are you giving sufficient thought to the tender skin of your little ones? The sensitive and delicate pores should be thoroughly cleansed every day with an antiseptic soap. But look out for strong alkali soaps, which roughen the skin and close the pores, leaving the impurities inside. Palmer's SKIN-SUCCESS Soap, a pure vegetable product, is a skin laxative. It softens and opens the pores, soothes sensitive skin and is a thorough antiseptic. It is wonderful for the tender and susceptible skin of the little ones. Ask your dealer—no knows!

I wonder how many "red" bayonets were at the throat of the Russian priest who was told said he likes Bolshevism, when he said it—if he ever did. I want to know the facts, before I swallow that statement. All news in the daily press contradicts it. Yes, the peasants—who represent religion in Russia—do go to church. And they are not Bolsheviks but the latter's bitterest enemies—the greatest obstacle to the revolution. The Bolshevik paper "Rabotchi Golos" recently said the peasants' creed "even the most hopeful Communists know can only be eradicated by a generation of rational education in soviet schools." But I point out that they purpose thus to destroy it. Does that indicate love for it?

My critic's last paragraph to the effect that Christians who cannot reconcile Christ's teachings with the wickedness of some Christians, therefore, sometimes become atheists. Socialists or both, seems incoherent to me. If it means that they are justified in so doing, I denounce the idea. A fine type of Christian who would desert and deny Christ because he resents the sins and conduct of some of his fellowmen? That Socialism finds such a defender as it has in this instance, verifies the point I made in my speech—the insidious and widespread character of its menace.

Yours truly,

WM. D. CUNNINGHAM.

March 23, 1920.

Ludwig K.A. Martens

New photo of Ludwig K. A. Martens, "Soviet Ambassador" to the United States, who, according to a dispatch from Washington, has written to the state department demanding to know if he would be recognized as the official representative of Soviet Russia in the United States. Martens, it is said, offered to quit the country if the state department would not recognize the Soviet. Official Washington looks upon the letter as an attempt by Martens, venturing a probability that he would be deported, to acquiesce in the most disgraceful manner should the immigration tribunal, which is considering deportation charges, order him deported.
